DETAILED ACTION

1. This communication is responsive to the Reply filed 10/14/05.
2. Claims 45-54 are pending in this application. Claims 45, 49 and 52 are independent claims. This action is made Non-Final.
3. In the instant Reply, Applicants requested for: (a) the rejection of claims 45-48 under 35 USC § 102, first paragraph, to be withdrawn since the cited limitations are described in the specification; and (b) the removal of the Abrams et al reference due to the filing date of Abrams et al being later than the filing date of the present application. After careful reviews of the request, the Examiner agrees and the rejections as requested have been removed accordingly. Therefore, new grounds of rejections are set forth below.
4. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 45-46, 49-50, and 52-53 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Goldstein (US 5,410,326).

As per claims 45-46, Goldstein teaches a method of providing an interactive display on a display device in a network that controls a remote device in the network, the method comprising: selecting a display object on a device display in the network, generating at the display device a request associated with the selected display object, initializing, at the display device, a communication manager that monitors communication with the remote device, sending the request to the remote device in the network so that a corresponding remote method is invoked, receiving at the display device a reply from the remote device when the communication manager fails to detect communications errors (Examiner interprets that if there is no error, then the step of receiving a reply is proceeded as normal and expected in all instances), analyzing the received reply to determine whether the reply corresponds to the selected display object, and displaying an interactive graphical interface on the display device when the received reply corresponds to the selected display object (fig. 3; col. 7, lines 1-32; col. 10, lines 45-63).

Claims 49-50 are similar in scope to claims 45-46, and are therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claims 52-53 are similar in scope to claims 45-46, and are therefore rejected under similar rationale.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. Claims 47-48, 51 and 54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goldstein (US 5,410,326).

As per claims 47-48, Goldstein does not disclose a timer being used in conjunction with the communications manager, and various steps of timer communication requests for a communication reply such as setting/resetting/monitoring countdown timer and terminating communications between devices as claimed. However, the use of a timer and its associated features in conjunction with a communications monitoring networks are well known in the art. It would have been obvious to an artisan at the time of the invention to include such a component and its functions with Goldstein's method in order to provide a time-out means to prevent undesirable infinite waiting for a response from one communication device to another.

Claims 51 and 54 are similar in scope to claims 47-48, and are therefore rejected under similar rationale.
